

EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING CERTIFICATION

LEVEL 1 FEBRUARY - MARCH 2018

NOW!

1. Register now to reserve your seat in this small group program.
Contact peterson@experientiallearninginstitute.org
2. Peruse the course modules at:
ifelcertification.thinkific.com
3. Save the dates for the interactive sessions.
4. Invite your colleagues.

HOW?

- Eight 90 minute interactive sessions with faculty including David Kolb, PhD, Alice Kolb, PhD, D. Christopher Kayes, PhD, and Kay Peterson, MS.
- A facilitated small group conversation format supported by a "flipped classroom" that includes presentations, videos, readings, and reflective exercises
- Two individual coaching sessions to build self-awareness and personal effectiveness
- Weekly meeting with learning partners to apply learning and deepen understanding
- Bonus reference materials to extend your knowledge

WHO?

We invite you to join
David Kolb, PhD, Alice Kolb, PhD, D,
Christopher Kayes, PhD, and Kay Peterson, MS
for this unique learning experience.

Join Educators in K-12 and Higher education, Human Resource professionals in OD, coaching and training and development, and research scholars interested in the application of experiential learning principles in their work...

WHAT?

- Experiential Learning: Using the Learning Cycle for Effectiveness in Learning and Life
- Learning Spaces: Creating Learning Spaces in Conversation
- Learning Style: Understanding Preferences to Learning and Grow
- Learning Flexibility: Supporting Adaptability and Change
- Team Learning: Applying Experiential Learning for Team Effectiveness
- Your Educator Role: Educating Around the Learning Cycle
- Experiential Exercises: Designing Effective Experiences
- Deep Learning: Developing Expertise and Sustaining Lifelong Learning

LEARN WITH THE LEADERS OF EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING THEORY

Learning from experience is at the core of performance improvement, learning and development. In the challenging global environment, the ability to change and to acquire, create, and use new knowledge has become critical to success. Individuals, teams, and organizations that make learning explicit will build the capacity to adapt and thrive in uncertain times.

The Experiential Learning Certification Program is targeted to practitioners and scholars who wish to deepen their knowledge and practice of Experiential Learning. The program is based on the principles and practices of David Kolb's Experiential Learning Theory, an integrated, holistic, practical system for addressing the learning and development challenges of the 21st Century.

Join us for an eight-week online program that will demonstrate how learning from experience can be transformative for you and your clients, students, and colleagues.

SAVE THE DATES

This online program will convene every Wednesday for eight weeks beginning February 7, 2018.

The cohort will meet on the following dates via videoconference:

2/7/18; 2/14/18; 2/21/18; 2/28/18

3/7/18; 3/14/18; 3/21/18; 3/28/18

Upon successful completion of each module and attendance in at least six of the eight online programs, individuals will receive an Experiential Learning Certification (Level 1).